

Forecast For West Midlands
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Sunday 12 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Remaining mild, dull and damp at first turning brighter later.

Today:

Largely cloudy through the morning, with further outbreaks of drizzle first thing. However, by lunchtime it is likely to become brighter and drier but breezy. Feeling rather mild. Maximum temperature 13 deg C (55 deg F).

Tonight:

Breezy overnight, but also turning cloudier from the southwest with some rain developing for a time. Mild for most areas. Minimum temperature 5 deg C (41 deg F).

Monday:

Remaining cloudy throughout the day with some persistent rain at times. Perhaps turning clearer by the evening. Staying mild. Maximum temperature 11 deg C (52 deg F).

Outlook for Tuesday to Thursday:

Largely mild and cloudy throughout the week, dry much of the time but some patchy rain possible on Tuesday into Wednesday.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.